copies of his messages to President Roosevelt, Senators Claude B. Rorabacher and Charles G. Andrews, Congressman J. Hardin Peterson, A. Pat Canham, Joe Hendricks and H. A. Greene.

The telegram follows:
Honorable Henry A. Wallace,
Secretary of Agriculture.

We protest differential in sugar cane wage rates between Louisiana and Florida in determination just released stop Congress made Louisiana and Florida one wage therefore wages should be same in both states stop wages fixed for one state at but 75 percent of wages fixed for other states is most discriminatory and places severe penalty upon efficient operation stop in view of President Roosevelt recent statement that the south is the nation's number one economic problem it would seem only fair, just and reasonable that wages both states be fixed at highest rates mentioned in said determination.

Lowell Mellett, Exec.
National Emergency Council
Washington, D. C.

Newspaper reports indicate you are holding meetings Washington relative to lunch being at the same economic problem of action stop the Everglades protest such classification stop you invite your committee to visit this garden stop of the world and see for yourselves the higher than national living standards maintained stop you the Everglades stand ready to try an additional 100,000 families to the high level as soon as discrimination against this state stop stop examples of discrimination include Cuba and Mexico permitted free entry of their products and vegetables only during our production but when other states are prohibited same commodities Cuba and Mexico must pay duty and taxes stop you national sugar market with Florida prohibited supplying its own needs stop suggest best way to cure its complaint of a stop to discriminate against sugar by rest of nation stop gratuitous inroads to south when at same time people and foreign nations, most unfair and we of the Everglades must protest.

food for the turtles will be no problem, claiming they will eat hyacinths of which there is no shortage. Some have plainly prophesied that the problem of canals choked with hyacinths may be solved by turning sea turtles loose in the canals.

The West Palm Beach unit has accepted as one of its major projects passage of legislation to reclassify Lake Okechobee as a fresh water body, thereby halting selling in its waters.

President Rosenberg has invited all persons in the Pahokee-Canal Point area to join the unit whether they are sportsmen or not. Although the Lake Okechobee section of the county does depend as greatly on the tourist "crop" as the East Coast, he pointed out, this section has outstanding attractions that can be enhanced. He added that the wildlife is one of the greatest tourist attractions and warned that this great asset is being threatened by commercial interests, game law violators, prehistoric enemies and forest fires. The league's aim is to combat all of these enemies of desirable wildlife.

The league is a non-profit, non-political organization. Mr. Rosenberg said, with the sole purpose of meeting to solve problems relating to restoration and conservation of wildlife. Annual membership in the unit costs one dollar and he explained that the greatest need for membership is for the purpose of representing formidable voting strength in order to gain attention at Tallahassee when the legislature is in session. This membership would be used to convince legislators that their constituents are deeply interested in preservation of wildlife as one of the state's major assets.

BIBLE SCHOOL

The Community Vacation Bible school to be held at the Belle Glade Community church will start the last two weeks in July, starting July 19th. All children from the ages (3) three to (17) seventeen are welcome to enjoy the work.

Carl W. Brown, general manager of the Florida National Exhibit, announced this week that 200,000 trees will be required for the landscaping of the mammoth spectacle featuring the citrus industry of Florida, now being displayed in the Deland show for the day at the New York World's Fair 1939.

grade is completed. This surplus rock has been used to widen the road in many places, at times to a width of 50 feet.

The canal, therefore, will be able to carry a much greater volume of water to the sea in times of flood than in the past and at the same time water transportation will be facilitated between the upper and lower portions of the canal. Thus, both land and water transportation will have been much benefited by the building of this great highway which will tap the heart of the Everglades water garden, area around Lake Okechobee, for Miami and Fort Lauderdale.

Four Amendments Before Voters Of State This Fall

School Parity Amendment Is Important To Voters

TALLAHASSEE, July 7.—Florians will amend its constitution in November to guarantee for common schools the same financial support given to the state branches of state government. The amendment submitted by the 1937 legislature is approved in the general election, the annual school appropriation will be just as valid a claim against the state treasury as the appropriation for paying expenses of the governor, the cabinet and the courts.

The present law has been interpreted as giving constitutional of a prior right to money in the treasury. If shortages occurred and there was not enough money to go around, then schools had to take the extra tax of a cent.

If the new "parity" amendment becomes part of the constitution, the schools would lose only the same proportion of their appropriation as other branches of the state government were forced to lose.

Three other amendments will appear on the general election ballot. One is designed to extend homestead tax exemption, now enjoyed only by heads of families, to widowed and single persons. The original amendment was adopted in 1936. It gave home owners exemption from taxes on their homes, except on assessments for bonds.

Another would permit the legislature to pass a local bill only after 30 days' notice through the newspapers, unless it is to be submitted to a referendum.

A previous amendment sought to abolish local bills, but it never became effective because the legislature could not agree on uniform city charters and the Supreme Court said local bills could not be abandoned until some substitute had been given.

The fourth proposed amendment would for decision this year is whether they are sportsmen or not. Although the Lake Okechobee section of the county does depend as greatly on the tourist "crop" as the East Coast, he pointed out, this section has outstanding attractions that can be enhanced.

Movie acting is a nerve racking job and even the calmest stars get a bit cranky but the Durbin girl seems to have the knack of knowing the human thing to do under the heaviest pressure. Her boy seems to put the faculty to rest and to put it to rest. He doesn't hesitate to ask her advice in emergencies. When they were making her first film, "Three Smart Girls," there was some doubt about how to end the story. Pasternak asked Deanna, "Let the girl have the last word," and she said, "I'll say it."

human interest note instinctively and it was about that way in "Mad About Music." It was her suggestion again that, changed the script so that Gail Patrick could publicly acknowledge her as her daughter.

Miss Durbin is quite the pet of the studio, but it hasn't done any harm, apparently. She has plenty of confidence and appreciation of her ability, but absolutely no sense of her importance. She cares nothing for expensive gifts, though she could have them sent. Therefore she takes very good care not to ask. Before a scene in "Mad About Music," Pasternak noticed her eyeing a tiny glass horse, used as a table decoration. He knew she would never ask for it so after the scene he gave it to her. She threw her arms around his neck as a reward.

Though dozens of grown men and women on the set would obey her least wish, she prefers to run her own errands. She has the hinky dink man as she calls the ice cream vendor, all over the place for a cone. She hates auto-graphing photos but likes people so much that sometimes she gives the autographs when she doesn't want to.

Members of the newly formed Everglades Gasoline Retailers' association will meet again tonight to further perfect their organization and lay plans for attaining their ultimate goal of bringing the price of gasoline down in the Lake farming section. The organization has nearly 50 members and President Lawrence E. Will of Belle Glade expects that the membership will run well over that number before many weeks.

The organization will include retail gasoline dealers from Fort Myers to Clewiston on the East shore of Lake Okechobee. Ivan Vanhorn is vice president of the group and G. H. Cruise is secretary and treasurer.

It is the hope of the group that the tank wagon price of standard brands of gasoline can be brought down to coincide with prices prevailing on the East Coast. In years gone by gasoline has always been higher in this section than anywhere else in Palm Beach county. It is this evil that the retail dealers hope to correct.

The fishing party has a good luck Sunday.

A party of Canal Point and Pahokee fishermen had exceptionally good luck Sunday when they went deep sea fishing out from Palm Beach on Capt. Jorgensen's boat. ## Shelley Vanquishes Van Landingham In Duval Jewelry Handicap at Clewiston

Big Tom Shelley, Clewiston's long-hitting slugger, fought through 36 grueling holes at the Clewiston Golf club last Sunday to finally vanquish "Little Doc" Van Landingham, Everglades handicap champion, to take possession of the first Duval Jewelry handicap cup. It was a bitter, nerve-racking struggle that went clear to the last hole before Shelley was able to clinch a 1-1 victory over the diminutive South Bay boy who has proven the past winter and spring to be about the toughest match-play golfer in the Glades. After winning the first hole Shelley dropped the next, only to go up on No. 3 and increase his lead to 2 up at the turn of the first nine. Coming in to lunch Van Landingham won Nos. 11, 12 and 14 to go 1 up, losing this advantage on No. 17, the two-par 3s, finishing the morning affair all square.

The first afternoon nine found the handicap champ going 1 up on No. 19 and turning the nine 2 up after a smart 35 while Shelley was using up 40 strokes. Van Landingham increased his lead to 3 up on No. 28 and held this advantage through the 30th hole. At this point, however, Shelley engaged a birdie on the long list to wipe out one loss, and won two more in succession when Van's usually steady game momentarily deserted him. Shelley caught himself another birdie on the 34th to go 1 up, but the South Bay boy squared matters on the 35th with a par 4 while Shelley had to be content with a 5.

They faced the last hole all even. Van Landingham driving first missed his only tee shot of the day, the ball finding the canal for a penalty stroke. A beautiful spoon found him lying three just six feet off the green. Shelley boomed out a beautiful drive and pitched 30 yards short, his chip sending six feet from the cup. Van's endeavor to sink from off the green was just a trifle too fast, the ball striking the lip of the cup and jumping six inches off the edge, while Shelley got his six-footer down for the match.

The two finalists exchanged no strokes as both were playing under a 7 handicap. Shelley, former champion of the Forest Hills and Temple Terrace clubs of Tampa, had a card of 163 to Van Landingham's 164. Shelley's victory won the first title for a Clewiston entry in the past winter and spring tournament schedule. Emmett Shelley represented Clewiston in the finals of the Everglades championship but lost to Belle Glade's O. G. McWhorter. Van Landingham, had previously won the Everglades handicap championship, winning over Pahokee's Louis Gault.

BELLE GLADE NEWS

Society in regular meeting.

The Women's Missionary society conducted its regular meeting at the First Baptist church Tuesday afternoon with Mrs. J. W. Rashley in charge.

The meeting opened with the hymn, "My Faith, My Love," followed by the devotional from John 14, given by Mrs. G. I. Evans, second chapter of the Mission Study book, "Fruits of the Years," by Mrs. Rashley. Others on the program were Mrs. Marion Benfel, Mrs. Vernon Jones, Mrs. Frank Howard and Mrs. Hampton Holloway.

During the business session, additional funds were allowed for the new church pews, and plans were made for attending the Golden Jubilee anniversary luncheon at Ft. Lauderdale. Reports were given on welfare work being done among needy families in the community.

The meeting closed with prayer by Mrs. Evans.

Walter Majors is given party.

Mr. Beulah Lea Majors honored her son, Walter Ray Majors with a party celebrating his sixth birthday anniversary on July 1, at the home of Mrs. Albert Snyder. She was assisted by Mrs. Snyder and Mrs. Lawrence Bessant. Games and contests were played on the spacious lawn.

Refreshments and favors were in keeping with the Fourth of July holiday spirit.

Among those present were Du Barry Bessant, Carroll Snyder, Catherine Fane, Jimmy Lanier, Roger Cunningham, Charles Alton, David Evans, Jr., Jane Richardson, and Buddy Anapoli.

Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Wedgworth and children have returned from a trip through Georgia and North Carolina.

Mr. and Mrs. Kendrick Alton and son, Charles, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Dooley and baby, Mrs. Minnie Holmes, Mrs. Mattie Casey, Mrs. Dora McWhorter, and Mrs. James Scullen and S. A. Roberts spent Monday at a picnic at Fishing Creek.

Miss Joe Freedlund, Miss Helen Hiss, and Miss Dorothy Hiss, returned from Asheville, N. C., where they attended the national convention of the Pi Beta Phi society.

Mr. and Mrs. D. P. Farmer have returned from a visit to relatives in Jacksonville.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Stirling have returned from Lake Placid where they visited relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Carrol McDonald and children, Harry, Carolyn and Carol, Jr., have returned from a visit to relatives in Georgia and North Carolina.

Mrs. S. A. Roberts and children, Steve and Betty, have returned from a visit to Mrs. Mattie Ridge in Bartow.
